One of the ways we bless teams who serve on a short-term trip is by providing a photographer to document their trip, allowing them to focus on their ministry. During our busy summer season, Media Interns play a vital role in this service to our teams. In order to help us know your level of experience and ability to complete assigned tasks, if you would like to apply to be a media intern, please complete the following section. Having equipment and experience is preferred, but not a requirement to apply for the media position. Media interns will have all of the general intern work expectations plus the added responsibility of documenting a team's experience during the week they are there. This will involve taking, reviewing, sorting and uploading pictures (and possibly video). We will provide additional training from one of our media specialists before you start.

Why would you like to be a media intern?

What kind of camera do you have, is it a digital SLR?

Can it shoot stills and video?

List any other equipment you have (gimbals/stabilizers, GoPro, drone, shotgun mic, etc.):

Do you have a laptop you can bring to edit pictures and videos as well as produce a video?

What kind of laptop do you have (Mac or PC, approximate age)?

Will you have the ability to store a week's worth of pictures and video (e.g. large hard drive with free space or external drive, 50Gb minimum recommended)?

What kind of software have you used and/or do you have to edit pictures? (you will only be doing minimal photo editing)

What kind of software have you used and/or do you have to edit and produce videos?

Have you used iMovie to edit videos before?

Is there any equipment listed above that you are not willing to bring with you?

Tell us about your photography and videography experience:

If you have published any of your work, please include some website links or social media profiles so that we can check it out.

Interns interested in Medical Missions complete the next section.

In order to help us know your level of experience and ability to complete assigned tasks, if you are interested in medical missions, please complete the following section.

GO hosts several medical teams throughout the year who travel to communities outside the area served by our clinic. Depending on your knowledge, skills, abilities, and experience, as well as the team's needs, you may have the opportunity to observe or participate in these mobile clinics. Priority is always given to team members and Dominicans for hands-on service, but extra help is often needed. Mobile clinics run on the availability of teams who sign up to come on a short-term mission, so there is no guarantee we will have medical teams during your internship. Our clinic building is operated by full-time staff, so unless you have a specialized skill set or licensure, you will not be participating in the day-to-day operations or patient care in the clinic. We will make every attempt to allow you to observe in our clinic for at least part of one day if desired. Interns interested in medical missions will have all of the general intern work expectations plus the added responsibility of helping our medical teams. Clinical experience and/or the ability to speak Spanish is highly preferred, but not always required.

Why would you like to be a part of our medical missions?

What licensures or certifications do you hold and for how long?

Do you have any clinical experience?

How many years of experience?

In what capacity (student, resident, practitioner, etc.)?

What was the setting for this experience?

Areas of specialty or specialty experience?

Has any of your experience involved Spanish-speaking patients?

How did you participate (use your Spanish skills)?

Would you be comfortable translating in a basic triage setting? Diagnosis/treatment setting?

Interns interested in Sports Ministry complete the next section.

In order to help us know your level of experience and ability to complete assigned tasks, if you are interested in sports ministry, please complete the following section.

GO Sports and the Leadership Development Complex (LDC) is one of the focused areas of ministry that has seen and is seeing a lot of growth. Groups from the US will often come down to host sports-specific weeks of ministry, including baseball, basketball, volleyball, and soccer for boys or girls. Visiting groups will partner with Dominican coaches in leading camps, and the focus will be on their experience, but interns who have played or currently play can offer added instructional and ministry opportunities. Depending on your knowledge, skills, abilities, and experience, as well as the team's needs, you may have the opportunity to observe or participate in these camps. Camps run on the availability of teams who sign up to come on a short-term mission, so there is no guarantee that there will be a sports team during your internship. The LDC and GO Sports are operated by full-time staff and coaches, so unless you have a specialized skill set or licensure, you will not be participating in the day-to-day operations or coaching. Interns interested in sports ministry will have all of the general intern work expectations, but may also be given the opportunity to be placed with sports-specific groups where they can use their talents and experience. Collegiate-level experience and/or the ability to speak Spanish is preferred, but not always required.

Why would you like to be a part of our sports ministry program?

What sports have you played, for how long, and at what level (rec, club, high school, college, etc.)?

What coaching experience do you have and at what level?

What refereeing/officiating experience do you have and at what level?

Do you have any athletic training or personal training experience?

Do you hold any certifications or licensures?

Do you have any sports management experience?

In order to help us know your level of experience and ability to complete assigned tasks, if you are interested in worship arts ministry, please complete the following section.

GO has recently begun a Worship Arts academy under our Church Planting focused area of ministry. Groups from the US have started to come down to help this growing ministry which is led by Dominican musicians and pastors. Groups have led worship camps or helped in the academy space. Depending on your knowledge, skills, abilities, and experience, as well as the leaders'/teams' needs, you may have the opportunity to observe or participate in these camps or in the academy. Camps run on the availability of teams who sign up to come on a short-term mission, so there is no guarantee that there will be a worship team during your internship. The Worship Arts Academy is operated by full-time staff and teachers, so unless you have a specialized skill set, you will likely not be participating in the day-to-day operations of the academy. However, there is opportunities to participate in weekly English worship services as well as helping our intern family worship through music. Interns interested in worship ministry will have all of the general intern work expectations in addition to the worship opportunities. Performance experience and/or the ability to speak Spanish is preferred, but not always required.

Why would you like to participate in the worship arts ministry?

What are your musical gifts/talents? If you play an instrument, what do you play, for how long, and at what level (self, friends, small/large ministry gatherings, school, etc.)? If you sing, same questions (include your vocal range and usual roles).
